

Authors

We are proud to present our “Authors of Excellence.” In addition to working in private practice, all our contributing authors occupy prominent positions in academia, and, prolific writers that they are, have accumulated long lists of published titles on their CV’s.

Exclusive to MRUpdate and appearing nowhere else, our articles are written for the referring physician audience alone, with an emphasis on educating the clinician on the best use of MRI for their patient population within the context of one specific disease process.
